

We claim:

1. A cable and/or the like supporting and guiding device characterized by comprising a chain, a cable and/or the like disposed along said chain, and a support, which intersects said chain to support the cable and/or the like disposed on said chain and by that said support is formed so that it is flexed in the longitudinal direction of said cable and/or the like.

2. The cable and/or the like supporting and guiding device according to claim 1, characterized in that said support is composed of an elastomer containing a rubber and a thermoplastic elastomer.